

Ear Infection?

- Does your pet shake its head or hold it to one side?
- Does your pet scratch or rub its ears or rub its head against things?
- Is there a yellow, brown, or black discharge in one or both ears?
- Do their ears smell bad, or are they tender or red?

If you said yes to any of these questions, your dog may have an ear infection.

Now, there is a better way to diagnose and treat ear infections!

---

Video Otoscopy

Digital Video Otoscopy will show problems a standard otoscope may miss and will allow your veterinarian to more effectively diagnose, document and treat problems in the ear. Long term treatment options can be determined and follow-up visits will document your pet's recovery.

Information courtesy of:

